

Care of Wood Tonfa

If cared for properly your hardwood tonfa can give you a lifetime of use.

The original finish for a TORII WOOD WEAPONS tonfa is a non-toxic blend of natural oils and beeswax. We use Heritage Natural Finishes Wood Finish – Concentrated Finishing Oil.

Here are some basic guidelines for care:

- Avoid leaving the tonfa in a hot environment such as an enclosed car in the summertime.
- Avoid exposure to water, except of course some inevitable sweat that will occur during training.
- Keep your tonfa out of extended exposure to direct sunlight.

All fine wood products need some moisture, and in the dry climate of a home or business may become dried out. We recommend periodic maintenance of the grip with a citrus oil and beeswax product such as Howard Feed-N-Wax; <http://www.howardproducts.com/feednwax.htm> or their more natural blend; http://www.howardnaturals.com/howardnaturals/wood_preserver.asp Do this whenever the wood looks dried out, or even once a month or more for tonfa grips. Tonfa grips will need this more often than the bodies. Make sure any sweat has dried from the grips before applying the oil/wax finish. Just a drop on the top of the handles, worked into the wood with a bare hand is all that is needed. Feed-N-Wax works best when you leave it on for about twenty minutes before buffing off with a clean dry cloth then let dry overnight.

If at some point the tonfa grips become rough, you can restore them by lightly sanding with 220 grit sandpaper, or fine steel wool, then using Howard Feed-N-Wax or other similar product. This roughness may occur due to exposure to sweat, and that may "raise the grain". It is not likely to reoccur once the wood has been sealed again as noted above.

Policies

Guarantee

TORII WOOD WEAPONS guarantees your satisfaction. If something is "not quite" we want to make it right. If our weapon's design fails to meet your expectations, please return them prior to heavy use, for replacement, revision or refund of your purchase price.

SIZE: If the size is not right for you, return the item for a replacement product in the size that does fit. Please return an incorrectly sized item immediately in original unused condition.

WEAR AND TEAR: Normal denting will occur in the wood surface; this is not covered. By its nature, wood can fracture-we cannot guarantee against that. Make sure to choose one of the woods that will be appropriate for your usage. If the grip of a tonfa ever becomes loosened, we will replace or repair.

Returns

Please return the item in original packaging whenever possible.

To exchange an item, please ship it back to us via insured mail, Fed Ex or UPS. We will send you an invoice for the freight back to you on the exchange. Original shipping charges are not refundable.
